Diploma in Occupational Medicine

Ten Day Training Course

Monday 27th September – Friday 8th October 2010

The RSPH runs the Faculty of Occupational Medicine (FOM) approved course to prepare candidates for the Diploma in Occupational Medicine's written examination and the oral examination based on a portfolio.

Aims

The FOM Diploma has been designed for registered practitioners. It demonstrates that the holder has achieved a competence appropriate to a generalist working in occupational health. This course is the foundation level qualification required for occupational medicine.

Course content / Objectives

- Epidemiology
- The examination
- Occupational mental health disorders
- Toxicology
- Occupational skin disease
- Occupational health law
- Musculoskeletal disorders
- Occupational lung disorders
- Industrial relations
- Biological monitoring
- Disability assessment

By the end of the course, participants should:

- be competent to seek and apply special information and techniques in Occupational medicine;
- be conversant with current thinking on the application of appropriate legislation;
- satisfy all the requirements of the Faculty's Diploma Core Syllabus.

Tutors

The distinguished tutors and speakers cover a wide range of occupational medicine/health specialties. They include senior occupational medical officers from organisations such as the Health & Safety Executive, Cadburys, The Ministry of Defence, and the Post Office; along with consultants in occupational medicine, dermatology, toxicology and epidemiology, specialists in occupational health and hygiene. You will also have several sessions by representatives of the Faculty who discuss the whole qualification; a mock exam is given at the end of the course and advice is given on how to write the portfolio for the oral examination.

Our Course Tutor, Dr Jean Ross, is present throughout the course, as is Jennifer Tatman, Course Organiser.

The Faculty of Occupational Medicine (FOM)

You are required to send your primary medical certificate to the Faculty of Occupational Medicine (FOM). For Diploma registrations including syllabus and examination application forms, application deadlines and the template for the portfolio please see the FOM website.

Eligibility for the FOM examination requires all delegates to attend at least 90% of the course. This is a FOM requirement and is non-negotiable.

Please see the Faculty website for information on:

- the deadline for application to sit the Faculty examinations
- dates and venues to sit the examinations
- fees to register for the examinations
- the template for the portfolio
